"A HEALTHFUL MIND IS EVER MIRTHFUL," were the last words of GRIMALDI.
And that such is the maxim of our first men nowadays, may be seen in the fact of our Merchants, Bankers, Brokers, Editors and Artisans turning saide from the turmoil and care of everyday life, to revivily the mind, lighten the heart, recuperate the energies, refresh the brain and feast the soul, by spending a pleasant evening.

LAURA KEENE'S THEATER.—"OUT American Cousin" was reproduced at this establishment last night. The character of Asa Trenchard was taken by John T. Riymond, who rendered the part very acceptably to the audience. His acting was excellent, and, with a little more experience, his Ale Trenchard will be all that could be desired. The Lord Duadreary of Mr. Levick was a good performance. Mrs. J. H.
Allen took the character of Miss Trenchard, formerly represented by Laura Keene, with marked ability. The efficiency cast was excellent, and the present representation of "Ous American Cousin" is fully equal to the cast of its original production.
